

How can I be involved?

- Look at your child's performance and be sure you understand where your child stands in reading and mathematics.
- Talk with your child's teachers and principal to find out how you and your school can work together to improve child's performance.
- Be aware if your school's performance under NCLB and the ABCs. Communicate your school's successes to your community and look for ways to support your school.
- Contact Leake County Title I Office (601-267-3264) and find out more about how you can be involved by attending district meetings, serving on advisory committee and giving input on policies.

Parent Involvement

How are parents involved in schools?

Parent/Teacher Conferences

Parents and teachers meet regularly to discuss student progress and to strengthen home/school partnerships.

Home/School Compacts

Parents, students, and schools jointly develop agreements defining goals, expectations and shared responsibilities.

School-wide PAC (Parent Advisory Council) Meetings

Each Title I school has at least 4 meetings per year to provide information about the program, share strategies for academic success, and offer time for parents to ask questions and give feedback.

How are parents involved in schools?

Title I Planning Committee

Each Title I school invites parents to join the planning process as they evaluate programs and plan for the coming school year.

District-wide PAC Meetings

Parents and literacy teachers who attend these meetings gain valuable information to share with other parents and teachers at the school level.

Parent Advisory Board

These parents participate in the development of the district's Title I Parent Involvement Policy and are valued partners in the program evaluation process.

How are parents involved in schools?

Summer Reading Program

Parents and literacy teachers work together to combat the "summer slump" with summer reading programs that promote interactive parent/child learning activities.

Community Partnerships

The Title I program works jointly with various community organizations on special projects to reach many families.
